

WE ARE HIRING!

Cohere Arts CIC are looking for arts practitioners to join our team of freelance Creative Associates to help us deliver a number of exciting projects in East Anglia.

About us:

We are a Suffolk-based community interest company whose mission is to connect communities through engagement with arts and heritage. Through our creative health programme, we work with communities who have been marginalised through ill-health, disability or isolation, providing alternative routes to health and wellbeing through participation in arts-based activities. Our performance programme sees community artists of all ages and backgrounds working alongside professionals to create inclusive, accessible performance work that elevates the quality of participatory arts.

We are a company of artists, community practitioners and educators who have come together because we share the same values:

- participants and professionals as one artistic company
- we come from here – it's about us, where we live & who lived here before us
- using stories from our history & heritage (both period & contemporary) as a stimulus for artistic response
- trust in the collaborative and creative process
- generosity and celebration of creative contributions

You can find out more about our work here: www.coherearts.org.

About you:

Whether a visual artist, performer, writer, media specialist, or yogi, you will be interested in applying your practice within the field of creative health. You are adaptable, unflappable and collaborative. You may have some experience in the design and delivery of workshops either as a lead artist or workshop assistant, but if you don't, you are up for learning alongside more experienced artists.

Most importantly, our values and ethos will resonate with you.

As advocates of diversity, inclusivity and representation, we are particularly interested to hear from artists from the global majority, and/or those living with a disability or health challenge.

What we can offer:

- Interesting and exciting freelance work (both on and offline) that rewards and surprises
- A virtual team of like-minded artist practitioners
- Fees of £100-150 per half day, £150-250 per day depending on experience
